The image shows a technical drawing of a horizontal profile, likely a cross-section of a road or a similar structure. The drawing is a long, thin rectangle with a horizontal line running through its center. Above the line, there are several vertical lines of varying heights, representing a profile. Below the line, there are several small, rectangular blocks of varying widths, representing a base or foundation. The drawing is divided into sections by vertical lines. The first section on the left is labeled 'C0012-SST133-BGIA-R-'. The second section is labeled '0,061 m'. The third section is labeled '1,650 m'. The fourth section is labeled '96,22 %'. The fifth section is labeled '0.02'. The sixth section is labeled '12/02/25'. There are also several symbols: a cross symbol (X) in the first section, a right-angle symbol (L) in the second section, a right-angle symbol (L) in the third section, a right-angle symbol (L) in the fourth section, and a right-angle symbol (L) in the fifth section.
