

The diagram consists of a central vertical strip and two large side panels. The central strip contains several rectangular and trapezoidal shapes, some labeled 'L', 'M', 'XL', and 'T'. The side panels are larger and contain similar labels. The overall structure is symmetrical and appears to be a technical drawing of a component or a diagram of a system.